

Welcome back to the latest issue of Cub Manufacturing newsletter. We are excited to be back in the shop following our holiday break. We have spent the last few weeks catching up from the holiday orders, THANK YOU to everyone who ordered and we hope your gifts were a hit!

Project Updates:

So far, we have completed one of the mold racks ordered by Royer, Corp. Work on the second rack is nearly complete. This job has provided a wide variety of opportunities for our team. We have learned so much from one piece to the other - which makes work more efficient. Hands-on learning is an incredible teacher as it allows us the opportunity to work through challenges as they arise and celebrate success and learning as it occurs. We are very grateful for these opportunities!

We are currently working on a bracket prototype on a new job with Fat Rooster Fabrication, an off road company that makes frames and car bodies and attachments.

Remember us for your gift needs! With Valentine's Day coming up and eventually Spring and the approach of gardening season, we can make anything! Small pieces for a desk or hanging, larger standing pieces for your garden or yard, or personalized pieces to hang on your home.

We have some 'stock' items, but also do custom orders which come with design assistance. Prices on custom pieces are quoted at the time the design is complete. If you are interested, you can use our new

We hope you have enjoyed seeing the progress in the shop. We are very excited to be building our clientele and project portfolio. The experiences we have had through this hands-on environment have proven effective in the shop and in the classroom. When you are able to read and learn about a method or process and then be able to apply the learning to a specific, real-world situation and/or project it truly brings learning to life.

We are so grateful for the many opportunities we have had and will work hard to continue to exceed expectations and create satisfied customers!

Have a great week!
