Madison Consolidated Schools: eLearning Day Survey Results

After eLearning Day, we surveyed secondary parents, students, and staff about their experience. Over 600 participants gave us valuable feedback; we will use this information to help us improve future online learning days for our students.

A Note from the Director of eLearning

Each day our MCS students and teachers impress me with their passion and willingness to make our education the best it can be. Our first eLearning day was no different. While we have plenty of ways to improve the virtual learning experience, our initial attempt at this 21st century learning skill was very positive. Community, parents, staff, and students did an outstanding job making this successful. It took everyone's support to make this educational opportunity happen for our students, and I would like to express my deepest appreciation to all involved.

Based on our survey results, current educational and job market research, and staff evaluations, we plan to offer our next eLearning Day for secondary students (grades 6-12) on October 29th. Once again, we appreciate your feedback and look forward to continuing to work with you as we prepare MCS students for college and career readiness.

eLearning Day Feedback

"I think we should have more elearning days. For students who are not always able to make it to school, it was A LOT easier getting my things done. I could do them when convenient and work at my own pace. I think you should make elearning available to students throughout the year... maybe as an option for schooling or even having elearning days for snow days so we don't have to miss school." ~Student Response

"Love it. Keep up the good work. I want my children to have all of the opportunities possible to be prepared for what they may see leaving high school. eLearning is a great tool because giving them confidence to learn and take responsibility for their work on their own time is exactly what college and real life is all about. Kids need to be trained and brought up to understand they have to take responsibility for their own tasks. These challenges are great. Thanks!" ~Parent Response

"eLearning opened the door for us, as a church, to partner with our schools to provide a safe environment to meet the needs of our students while they fulfill their academic responsibilities. We want to partner with our schools to support and strengthen progress." ~North Madison Christian Church (Community Wi-fi Location)
